

2 Day Short Course

Aromatherapy

The practical and therapeutic applications of Aromatherapy

A SPECIAL GIFT

Each participant will receive an Aromatherapy Information chart

I learnt so much about how to use essential oils. I've discovered a new passion for learning more about aromatherapy through research and how to use essential oils as a natural therapy for friends and family”

Essential oils have been used for centuries all over the globe as a natural therapy. Pure essential oils have amazing properties to assist in the treatment of stress and anxiety, as well as physical illnesses.

This two day short course offers an informative and practical introduction to the therapeutic benefits and properties of a range of essential oils. Take home the essential oil blends you make, along with notes on the healing properties of specific oils.

This short course is for anyone interested in learning about Aromatherapy for use in the home.

The short course will also benefit Massage Therapists and students of Natural Health.

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN

Over two days participants will learn theoretical and practical skills including:

- Application methods in Aromatherapy
- The use of essential oils in First Aid, stress management, circulatory systems and skin care
- How essential oils are recognised in the body and their health benefits
- History of Aromatics
- Individual essential oil profiles and uses
- Extraction methods of oils
- Blending essential oils
